CHINESE BOYS TO STUDY HERE

Five Students From Orient Arrived Friday, December 24

PROF. SKILLINGS GUARDIAN

Boys Are Four Sons and Grandson of Second President of China

Through the efforts of Dr. Speer of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions Middlebury has been chosen as the most favorable location for five young Chinese students who arrived here Friday, December 24, and will make their home in Middlebury for a period yet indefinite. At present they are the guests at the homes of President John M. Thomas, Rev. E. B. Holmes, and Rev. E. W. Gould. The five boys came from New York direct to Middlebury. They landed in San Francisco from China Saturday, November 27, and came east after resting for two weeks on the Pacific coast in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego.

The names given the boys for use in America are Alexander, William, Henry, Thomas, and Charles, and they are of ages between twelve and seventeen years. Mr. L. M. Bocker, head of the industrial service department of the University of Pekin made the journey with them from Shanghai to New York. Professor Everett Skillings of the Department of English of the College has been appointed their guardian and is to superintend their studies and have general care of them in this country.

On Monday of last week the boys began their studies in English under private tutors. They are being tutored in phonetics by Professor Skillings and are studying music with Professor Hathaway. Charles Reinbrecht '22 is to be their athletic instructor and basketball coach. Outdoor sports will doubtless form a large part of the prescribed curriculum.

Yuan Shih Kai, father of four of the young students and grandfather of the fifth was the second president of the Chinese Republic and one of the most powerful figures in Chinese history. It was during his presidency that democracy actually came into existence in China. Strong political influence, however, forced him to attempt a restoration of the monarchy. He failed in this attempt and died in 1916.

Although notables in their own country, the boys are entering with zest into the activities of their Middlebury associates.

SUBSCRIPTION RALLY FOR FOOTBALL SWEATERS MONDAY

For the purpose of adding to the seventy dollars already raised toward the fund for sweaters for members of the 1920 'Varsity football team a men's subscription rally will be held Monday evening in McCullough Gymnasium under the auspices of Waubanaukee. Entertainment consisting of several vaudeville numbers in which members of the incoming class will be the principals, boxing and wrestling matches and selections by the College Quartet and combined college orchestras, will commence at eight-thirty. The downtown firm of Calvi Brothers will furnish cigarettes for the occasion. The admission fee of fifty cents will be charged. An advance sale of tickets is to be held this week.

QUINTET LEAVES ON SOUTHERN TRIP

To Meet Harvard, N. H. State and Northeastern This Week

TWO GAMES IN BOSTON, MASS.

New Hampshire Offers Strongest Opposition---Ten Make Trip

The basketball team left this morning at nine o'clock for Boston where the first game of the trip will be played with Harvard to-morrow afternoon. The game is to be played in the afternoon to accommodate the Harvard athletes who may desire to share in the banquet to be held that night in celebration of the recent successful football season. The Harvard five was defeated by Worcester Tech on Saturday by a 43-21 score.

Friday, the team will journey to Durham, New Hampshire, to play the State University that night. New Hampshire State has gained a reputation for itself in eastern basketball in the past few years and last year succeeded in placing one man on the All-New England second team. The game Friday promises to be the most difficult on the trip.

The final game before the return will be played at Boston on Saturday night when Northeastern will be met. Northeastern was downed recently by the University of Maine by a 45-22 score and should not prove a very strong opponent, even on its own court.

The following men including Coach Brown and Manager William Cohen will take the trip: Capt. Heath, Lacy, Leonard, Hardy, Davis, Timberman Sikorski and Axtell.

PROF. DE VISME MADE KNIGHT OF FRENCH LEGION OF HONOR

Official Decoration Conferred in New York, December 27

Installation ceremonies for Professor H. P. Williamson de Visme, head of the Department of Modern Language Instruction as Knight in the French Legion of Honor occurred Monday, Dec. 27 at the French consulate in New York City. Professor de Visme received the official decoration from the French government and a smaller cross fashioned similarly from friends in Paris. The ceremonies were presided over by Consul General Gaston Liebert, the principal speaker at the commencement exercises here last June.

The award of the French high honor which was made by ex-President Paul Deschanel was occasioned, as is contained in the offical notification received here in October, "for signal service in the cause of French education". Professor de Visme graduated from Middlebury with the Class of '96.

WERRENRATH CONCERT POSTPONED TO JAN. 21

The Student Life Committee announces the postponement of the Werrenrath recital, originally arranged for last evening, to Friday, January 21. The change in dates for the recital was necessitated on account of confusion in the offices of Mr. Werrenrath's concert management, the Wolfsohn Musical Bureau. The sale of seats for the entertainment has already progressed to such an extent as to guarantee one of the largest attendances of the season.

LEACOCK PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Famous Humorist's Burlesques of Fiction Irresistibly Funny

LECTURED HERE DEC. 15

Unexpected Phrases and Subtleties Prove Effective

That Stephen Leacock has established himself in the minds of all those who heard him lecture in Mead Memorial Chapel on December 15 as a real humorist and a fascinating speaker, was left in no doubt by the reception given him by the large and responsive audience. The secret of the ability of Professor Leacock to make people laugh has been said to be his trick of concocting new blends of familiar and unexpected phrases and of inserting absurd phrases into otherwise normal sentences. In his burlesques on the four styles of fiction, the juvenile story, the Scott novel, the 1880 type, and the modern "triangle problem" story Professor Leacock's subtle ways of catching his audience off their guard with his unexpected phrases and anti-climaxes proved irresistibly funny. The fact that his satires on "Frenzied Fiction" contained so many truthful criticisms presented in a way that robbed them of malice, made Professor Leacock's lecture doubly effective.

The first type of novel burlesqued by Leacock was the juvenile story with the perpetual hero type, parading under the name of Ned; Ned is the same boy who arises from office boy to president in five chapters, solves the mystery of the buried treasure and the pearl necklace and emerges triumphant in the final chapter with the blushing bride at his side. The second type was the Scott novel portraying "delicately featured damsels" and "blustering swash-buckling knights" who spent their holidays in search of the Holy Grail and at jousting parties, while the poor peasants and serfs dwelt in poverty. The 1880 novel portrayed by the humorist was that of the frontier stories "immortalized by our own Harold Bell Wright and Zane Grey", and the last type was that of the modern problem novel representing the eternal triangle.

On the afternoon of the lecture a tea was held at the home of Professor and Mrs. Burrage on Storrs Avenue, in honor of Professor Leacock, at which the members of the faculty and invited guests from the College were present.

N. Y. Banquet at University Club

A special dispatch to The Campus from L. F. Hovey, Jr., '04, secretary of the New York Alumni Association announces that the annual banquet of that body will be held at the University Club Friday evening, January 28.

'VARSITY LOSES ON DECEMBER TRIP

Dartmouth, Conn. Aggies, and Trinity Defeat Middlebury Five

HEATH AND LEONARD STAR

Performance of Team Encouraging Despite Scores

The three day trip taken by the basketball team before the Christmas holidays resulted in the loss of all three games played but the scores indicate the closeness of the contests and no disastrous defeat was encountered, although the trip cannot be termed a complete success by any means. The success or failure of the three day trip to be taken next week will serve to indicate in a more decisive manner the caliber of the team, as with four games already played and two weeks of additional practice in progress, the squad should be in mid-season form by that time.

Dartmouth Game

The first game of the trip was played at Hanover with Dartmouth College as the opposing five, on the evening of December 16. Neither team succeeding in scoring a basket from the floor during the first eight minutes of fast playing and then Dartmouth succeeded in the attempt. The score at the end of the first half showed an 18-9 score for the Green. The all around playing and especially the pass work of Dartmouth continued throughout the entire game and the final tally was 31-19. Captain Brown starred for Dartmouth while "Chuck" Leonard was the high point man for Middlebury.

Connecticut Game

After an all day trip the team arrived at Storrs, Connecticut, for the second game in a somewhat fatigued condition. Notwithstanding this fact, the pass work of the five showed a distinct improvement over the performance of the previous night, and overcoming a 16-9 lead of the "Aggies" in the first half Captain Heath's outfit were able to tie the score near the middle of the second period. The pace could not be kept up however and defeat arrived for the second time on the trip by the score of 33-25. Captain Heath and Leonard were the outstanding figures for Middlebury, while Alexander starred for the Connecticut team.

Let Us Have Quiet

One more instance of the failure of someone to get started is seen in the utter absence of regulations restricting excessive rough-housing in the several men's dormitories. Last year and for several years previous residents of Hepburn took matters into their own hands with the organization of a system of self-government which assured a reasonable degree of quiet at all times and especially in the evening. This year, however, weeks have dragged into months and months into almost a semester without any visible relief from periodic scenes of uproariousness which are being perpetrated by a few individuals in the two larger halls of residence for men.

Though a reasonable degree of orderliness in the dormitories is nothing more than should be expected at any time while college is in session, there is at the present moment added necessity for maintaining it. Despite the presence of a decided minority who glean much of their enlightenment in various courses of study through eleventh hour plugging, others of a saner turn of mind are now applying their spare hours in preparing for the semester examinations which commence in fifteen days. Their rights should be respected, as should those of the College with regard to property.

Authority when rarely exerted seldom exists in the event of an emergency. Even authority is a poor result producer when lacking organized backing. Thus the ordinary upperclassman hesitates before reprimanding a band of over exuberant freshmen for fear of being ridiculed. Residents of Hepburn and Starr should organize immediately and appoint responsible overseers for each floor from among the two upper classes. Furthermore, they should stand ready to assist in repressing all rough-housing which menaces peace or property.

A Middlebury Specialty

The modern language departments at Middlebury are offering exceptional opportunities this year for students who earnestly desire to perfect themselves in the study of French and Spanish.

No college in the country can boast an institution such as the Maison Francaise and few institutions the size of Middlebury have instructors so thoroughly qualified to make a language of vital interest to the student of French or Spanish. The Deans of the French and Spanish Schools are men who have won recognition for their successful methods of conducting the summer school sessions in the past few years. The teaching staff further includes two instructors recently arrived in this country from Paris and two fom Spain; the latter have introduced added facilities for conversational practice by consenting to take charge of two Spanish tables in the Battell dining hall, while Professor Lacalle has charge of a similar table at Hepburn Commons.

In this country, to-day, there is a crying need in elementary and secondary schools for modern language teachers who are qualified to give the youth of America the best possible foundation for advanced study. Under existing conditions teachers in higher educational institutions are frequently obliged to forbid high school graduates' admission into advanced courses because of their sadly deficient preparation. It is an admirable thing for a college to be distinguished for athletic prowess, for magnificent buildings, noble traditions but no less noteworthy is the college which attains distinction through the well directed influence of its graduates in solving the present problems of education.

Communication

To the Editor of The Campus—
Dear Sir:—

There now lies before me a blank history sheet on which I am asked to write a history of my life since my graduation from Harvard College in 1896, and likewise a request for a photograph to compare with one taken within that year. Once since graduation have I written such a history, for the Tenth Year Reunion, I think it was. It might be well, unless some such an institution exists at Middlebury for the different classes to establish a similar plan to keep in touch with the Alumni and their doings. It is, of course, awe-inspiring for the undergraduates at once to see us as smooth faced innocent, uncorrupted fledglings, and again to view us as we are twenty-five years later, bearded, dignified, sophisticated and quite man. ageable citizens. And our life's efforts within those twenty-five years would act, when read, as a vaudeville performance on the minds of our audience.

The Periscope

Glad To Come Back?

By special request from the Prof. concerned we refrain from printing the names of the characters concerned in this touching welcome scene enacted in one of our classrooms, Jan. 4.

Prof., beaming with kindly New Year condescension: "Happy New Year."

Class, mechanically but with one accord: "Same to you, Professor."

Prof., visibly pleased: "And I hope you will do some real hard work from now on."

Golden silence, broken at last by a still small voice: "Same to you, Professor."

After a vacation spent amid the glamour of the metropolitan district it is something of a relief to return to the quiet fastness of Vermont where the grievous effects of the "crime waves" seem not yet to have made themselves so distressingly evident. In Middlebury the highway robbery is at least of the more peaceful sort conducted by our own local merchants.

Things are pretty bad in New York. The usual pleasant salutation there has given way to "Good morning, when were you robbed last?" or "How do, how much did you lose last night?"

New Yorkers express much dissatisfaction over their police commissioner Mr. Enright, but their protestations have only served to strengthen their belief that he is Inright with Hizzoner The Mayor, Lord Hylan. Happily we have no such dissension on our own local police force. Officer Shaw and his assistant, the silent cop stationed at "the crossing" work together in perfect harmony and coordination, each being singularly well-liked and respected by the other.

Try Buckling 'em Up

For rain and snow may come and go
But unbuckled golashes clink on forever. W. K. W.

Ye Ed. believing that a trip to the city to absorb metropolitan ideas was indispensable to the aims of The Campus, vacationed in New York. We met at Times Square at the foreign News Stand that sells all newspapers from far and near except The Campus and The Rutland Herald.

In our peregrinations about the city we chanced upon the Ouija Lunch Room on 47th St. but lest we be mistaken, we hasten to inform the public that there were no spirits sold there.

We were just wondering how many here have ever been as far south as South Orange, N. J. Same is our permanent residence and it has much in common with other "home towns" in that it is a place that when absent from, one wants to be present at and when present at, one wants to be absent from.

From the looks of things in Hepburn Social Hall and Doc Ross's office the nation has turned from vacation to vaccination.

Anon. Waxes Poetic

What a vile abomination
Is this awful vaccination.
Half the germs of all creation
Must be sacrificed and sore.
Mine is itching, swelling, aching,
Tortures new forever making.
And they ask me, "Is it taking?"
And I murmur, "What a bore!"

If there are any of us that do not believe that we are but creatures of habit let him but stop and consider how many times this year he has dated papers 1920.

Brotherhoood, Industry, Economy the Panacea

By A. Barton Hepburn '71

The best thing that could happen to the United States, and the whole world in fact, in 1921 is a realization that we all "brithers be"; that in working for "ithers" we are most efficaciously working for ourselves; that the chance of our prospering individually is greatly enhanced if prosperity is general.

Be loyal citizens, loyal to our Government loyal to our Constitution, loyal to the best traditions of our race, loyal to the principles and precepts of the Christian religion.

Evidence this by economy, sobriety, industry, and then more industry and more economy; extend the helping hand. This is the only panacea for the devastating ills of the present time; this is the only way to overcome the blighting effect of the world war and bring back prosperity.

FROSH TAKE LEAD IN CLASS SERIES

Maintain Clean Slate By Defeating Juniors and Sophomores—Same Teams Win Other Games

The first round of the annual interclass basketball series went to the freshmen Saturday night when they defeated by a score of 35-13 the sophomores who had previously gone undefeated in their games with the seniors and juniors. Both teams played hard but the lower classmen showed a superior brand of passing and easily rolled up a lead in the first half which was never threatened. The surprise of the evening was the work of Ferry who accounted for nine of the fourteen floor baskets made by his team.

Freshmen (35)	Sophomores (13)
Savage, l. g.	l. g., Gray, Lawton

Juniors Win From Seniors

That same evening the juniors defeated the seniors 30-18 in an open game full of queer breaks. The juniors started off to take the breaks and Dame Fortune stayed with them until the end. Reinbrecht and Ross were the lucky ones for the juniors and Whitmore for the seniors.

Thursday's Games

Thursday evening the sophomores defeated the seniors 14-8 and the freshmen defeated the juniors 21-16.

The sophomore victory was an easy one as the seniors shot but one basket from the floor. The other six points were in baskets from fouls. The entire senior score was accounted for by Whitmore. Every sophomore that played got at least one basket.

MANAGERS' VOTING POWERS EXCITE UNDERGRAD. ASS'N

Animated Discussion Lasts Half-Hour —Proposed Amendment Defeated

Fully thirty minutes was consumed at last night's meeting of the Undergraduate Association in what amounted to a worthless discussion of athletic managers' voting privileges in the election of team captains as written in the By Laws of the Athletic Council's constitution. Two motions favoring interpretations, first, to restrict the managerial voting privileges to the casting of the deciding vote as has been observed in the past in the event of a tie, and a second, which sought to vest in the manager the same voting powers as team members, were defeated. Opinions of a diverse and, in many cases, contradictory nature were offered a plenty without success in breaking the deadlock. The meeting came to an end without any satisfactory solution to the problem although it is expected that two amendments, one providing a clear-cut statement of the managerial powers as they have existed in the past, and a second, vesting the manager with full voting privileges by striking out the word "Manager" in part of Section 3C under Article II of the By Laws, will be introduced at the next regular meeting.

The whole dispute turned on the wording of this part of the constitution, relating to the team pictures, which speaks of "those entitled to vote together with Manager" as contrasted with Article V (Election of Captains) which provides that captains shall be elected "by the letter men of the preceding year." In Section 4 and 10, Article IV the constitution provides that managers are to be granted the "M" which corresponds to the ranking of the sport, that is, major or minor. In the business meeting the proposed amendment depriving letter men of that privilege on failure to try out for the sport in the following season was unanimously defeated.

Green Mountain Club Will Present Views of Neighboring Ranges

Next Friday evening at 8:15 in McCullough Gymnasium, Capt. Herbert W. Congdon will give an illustrated lecture on the Mt. Mansfield and Bread Loaf sections of the Long Trail. Capt. Congdon, who is an architect with a New York firm, is a trustee of the Green Mountain Club of Vermont, and as official mapper of the Long Trail he has spent much time in the Lake Pleiad section. He will show many interesting colored slides which have never been shown here before, and which will be of especial interest to all those who took the Bread Loaf trip last fall. This lecture will follow the annual business meeting of the Lake Pleiad section of the Green Mountain Club, to be held at 7 o'clock in the lecture room of the Chemistry building, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Capt. Congdon is the traveling secretary of the Delta Upsilon fraternity, and is also secretary of the Inter-Fraternity Conference.

Professor H. P. Williamson de Visme of the Department of French, addressed the Unity Club in Burlington Friday and the Parent-Teachers Association at Proctor yesterday. He has engagements to speak later in the month in Brandon and Albany, N. Y.

DR. D. J. COWLING SPEAKS AT VESPERS

President of Carlton College Gives Message on Method of Success For College Students

The speaker at vesper service last Sunday was Dr. Donald J. Cowling, President of Carlton College, Northfield, Minnesota. Dr. Cowling took for his text the "method of success", bringing out the fact that the immediate gain was not always the ultimate victory. From the fourth chapter of Matthew, the words "All these things will I give, if thou wilt fall down and worship" he illustrated how Christ was tempted to win his kingdom and achieve immediate success, but preferred to suffer seeming defeat at the cross, threby gaining the real victory. In the same way, Dr. Cowling said, college men would face the decision in business, in politics, and in every problem of their life, of immediate success by questionable methods or ultimate gain by fair means.

Dr. Cowling came to America from England in 1880, attended Lebanon Valley and Yale colleges, and after teaching for some time in Baker University was made president of Carlton College in Minneapolis. Dr. Cowling is a member of the Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities and a member of Cosmos Club of Washington, University Club of Chicago and others.

Miss Ross Speaks at Y. W. C. A. Meeting

Miss Ross gave an interesting and helpful talk at the Y. W. C. A. meeting last Thursday evening on New Year's resolutions. She compared them to clearance sales, where the merchant takes account of stock, and discards useless goods and articles with which he is overstocked. She argued that in college life students should make a new beginning and note everything which is undesirable in their manner, personality and character in order that these may be discarded for better things.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO AVERT SMALL POX SPREAD

As a precautionary measure against the spread of smallpox which has been prevalent in the southern part of the State college authorities on Saturday ordered the vaccination of all students who had not been vaccinated within two years. The vaccine was administered by three local physicians, Drs. S. S. Eddy, J. J. Ross and P. L. Dorey and was practically completed that evening.

The only victim of the disease in College is Miss Olive Walters '24 of West Rutland who contracted it from members of her family during vacation.

Professor and Mrs. Charles B. Wright and Miss Marjory Wright sailed from Baltimore Monday on the Pacific Mail Steamship "Cuba" for California via the Panama Canal. They are due to arrive at San Pedro, Cal., on February 5.

DOSHISHA FUND TOTALS EIGHT HUNDRED DOLLARS

Will Establish "Middlebury College Scholarship" at Kyoto, Japan

Just before Christmas the Doshisha fund, amounting to $640 contributed by students and alumni of Middlebury College, was forwarded to Yoshimitsu Suzuki, Principal of Doshisha Academy, Kyoto, Japan. Additional contributions received since the Christmas vacation raise the total to $800. The additional amount will be sent to Japan at the end of the present week.

The Doshisha fund was mostly contributed some time ago, Miss Anne F. Smith, '06, being the prime mover in the plan. The money will be turned over by Mr. Suzuki to the Treasurer of the Doshisha to form a foundation which will be known as "the Middlebury College Scholarship," the income of it to be used for the assistance of needy and deserving students in the preparatory department of the university.

Mr. Suzuki was for some time a student at Middlebury College in the class of 1907, and the scholarship fund forms a pleasant recognition of the good work he is doing and a token of the interest taken by this College in Orient.

Trinity Game

The shooting of the team showed improvement in the final game at Trinity College on the next night although the size of the floor caused a variation in the usual passing game because of its difference from the home court, and this did not improve the work of the team as a whole in that department. Trinity acquired an 18-13 lead in the first half which was never overcome and the end of the game saw a 33-26 defeat for Middlebury.

THIRTY ATTEND FIRST GLEE CLUB REHEARSAL

Meetings To Be Held Every Friday—Need More Singers

About thirty men attended the first regular rehearsal of the Glee Club Friday evening in the Band Room, Painter Hall. Voices were divided quite evenly among the several parts with the exception of baritone which was a bit short of the usual number. The singing was conducted by Dean L. I. Bonney assisted by Professor L. J. Hathaway, at the piano. Rehearsals are to be held regularly on Friday evenings at seven o'clock, the next one being this week when the first attendance will be taken. All new music will be used this season.

There will probably be a trip through the northern part of the state during the last week in March and there is a possibility of one south the following week.
